

NEW YORK TIMES

NOV 22 1965

GEN. M'CLELLAN, 72,
WAS AIDE TO C.I.A.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 20 (AP)—Maj. Gen. Harold M. McClelland, director of communications for the Central Intelligence Agency, died Friday at his home here. He was 72 years old.

General McClelland, who was the inventor of many radar and other electronic devices, had been with the agency for 14 years.

A native of Tiffin, Iowa, he was an honor graduate of Kansas State University in 1916. From 1917 to 1951 he was an officer in the Army and later in the Air Force. During his Air Force career he specialized in radio and later radar communications. He joined the C.I.A. in 1951 after retiring from the Air Force.

For his military service he was awarded the Distinguished Service Medal with oak leaf cluster, the Legion of Merit and the Order of the British Empire.

His survivors include his widow, a son, two sisters and a brother. Graveside services will be conducted Tuesday at Arlington National Cemetery.

CPYRGHT